

We're looking to grow our team providing care to patients with intellectual and developmental disabilities

At Santa Rosa Community Health, we believe health care is a fundamental human right. Every day, we open our doors to care for our diverse patients in a way that honors them and meets their health care needs – no matter what. We are dedicated to social justice and trauma-informed care, as well as an innovative approach to caring for our patients in a comprehensive way, while feeding your passions in medicine.

If you're someone who:

- Is dedicated to providing excellent care to patients with neurodevelopmental disabilities in a well-supported team environment
- Desires to work in an environment supported by specialized nursing and behavioral health, as well as other on-site specialists for our patients with neurodevelopmental disabilities (epilepsy care, podiatry, surgery, and dental care)

We've got a great opportunity for you.

In this role, you'll:

- Create ongoing relationships with patients by providing access, continuity, education and comprehensive care
- Provide medical care using the current best practices for patients with neurodevelopmental disabilities.
- Work closely with our IDD team to provide exceptional integrative services
- Meet regularly with the Medical Director to review patient care issues and provide input into the development of treatment guidelines and protocols.

Plus, you'll work at a place that is at the heart of health for our community.

Santa Rosa Community Health serves more than 40,000 patients across 8 campuses. Located in the heart of northern California wine country, we employ almost 500 people, all of whom are united in heart health, and justice. Following the numerous natural disasters and now global pandemic, we've made a remarkable recovery and are serving all of our patients.

We can boast of many accomplishments, from being voted a "Best Place to Work" for the last three years to being Joint Commission Accredited and the home of two nationally recognized residency programs. At the same time, we're always looking to the horizon to better serve our patients, our employees, and our community.

If you'd like to help us achieve our vision and mission please visit srhealth.org/careers/

Our Team

At Santa Rosa Community Health all who enter our doors are heard, valued, and respected. We recognize the value of diversity, equity, and inclusion as key factors to provide high-quality culturally responsive care to our community.