Life's WORC
Chief Executive Officer
Garden City, NY
Background
Life’s WORC is a not-for-profit agency that has been providing quality support services to the special needs community for over 50 years. The agency’s Founder, Victoria Yunis Schneps, and her late husband created the model of care that took people with intellectual challenges from institutions and placed them in family like homes in community-based settings. From its first home opened in Little Neck, Queens, Life’s WORC has expanded to manage 45 homes, multiple non-residential programs and a Family Center For Achievement across Suffolk and Nassau Counties, Queens and Manhattan serving over 2,000 families and individuals with developmental disabilities, intellectual challenges and autism. The agency provides in-home support, skills development, behavioral intervention, social/recreational programs and vocational training opportunities.

Life’s WORC has always offered the special needs community quality programming and a residential program that affords a safe and supportive environment. In 2023, the agency will take the next step to providing this population with the opportunity for a purposeful life. The new Life’s WORCFORCE initiative opening in 2024 will provide people in the community and in the agency’s homes and programs a place to go, people to meet and vocational lessons to learn. WORCFORCE is a two floor, 24,000 square foot center, that has a chef’s kitchen, a huge gymnasium and multiple training rooms some of which are manned by local and national private corporations who are partnering to help provide valuable lessons to the special needs population.

Life’s WORC is known for its quality services and support. In addition, the agency operates very efficiently, with 90% of the funds received by the agency is spent on the people in the agency’s homes and programs, and the remaining 10% is efficiently spent on administrative overhead.
